Walton Orders Troops To Prevent Balloting

Lawmakers Determined To Test Power Of Governor To Stop Voting

State Election Board Issues Instructions To Jail Interferers

BULLETIN.

Tulsa, Okla.—Armed forces faced each other at noon Monday at the Tulsa-co court house as the hour approached for the distribution of election supplies to precinct polling places for Tuesday's special election.

Twelve "armed citizen volunteers" commissioned Sunday night by Governor Walton's intelligence officer, R. E. Stevens, were stationed in the headquarters of the county election board in the county building, while more than 100 armed special deputies sworn in Monday by Sheriff R. D. Sanford moved throughout the building.

"The distribution of supplies will begin at 1 P. M., the sheriff's forces declared.

Stevens' men said that any supplies removed from the building would be taken out "over our dead bodies."

At 12:10 Sheriff Sanford backed by a body of 200 armed special deputies surrounded the 12 "citizen volunteers" and ordered them from the building. They left in a body.

BULLETIN.

Oklahoma City—Playing his trump card, Governor J. C. Walton Monday reconstituted the state election board, and orders issued by the new board went out at once to all county boards to halt the special state election of Tuesday.

Oklahoma City—Oklahoma, which for more than two weeks has been a massed arena of contention revolving about the prerogatives of Governor J. C. Walton, was preparing for a major crisis Monday.

Tuesday, when 7 o'clock arrives for the opening of the polls for a special election at which a measure would be voted on paving the way for the legislature to consider impeachment charges against the executive, the "zero hour" of the conflict is expected to be reached.

At that time will be determined the question of whether officers acting on order of the governor can prevent the electorate from going to the polls. The governor has declared the whole armed force of the commonwealth will be in the field to bar the election and to keep down rioting that may result.

Opposing him members of the legislature and sponsors of the initiated bill to permit them to review the governor's actions, have conducted a hasty campaign to insure a general effort by the citizens to vote.

Their actions in the support of Attorney General George F. Shott, STATE ATTORNEY BACKS HOUSE

"The election is valid," Mr. Shott declared, "and I have so instructed every county attorney who has inquired my opinion."

Sunday night printing presses in every county ran off thousands of ballots, while speakers at meetings called upon the people to go to the polls in defiance of the governor's threat. Monday the state was at a pitch of excitement as yet unequaled since the inception of the rapid train of incidents which have led to the eve of an election unparalleled in the history of the nation.

Walton will answer the question of whether the governor, who on Wednesday dispersed 55 legislators who sought to assemble at the state capital, can by the repeated use of arms frustrate the efforts of men and women in every precinct of the state who seek to vote.

Sunday night the executive mobilized approximately 3,500 national guardsmen and called to duty also an army of city volunteers which he said was 75,000 strong to prevent disturbances on election day. He issued instructions to his force of special state officers to assist regular county civil authorities in preventing the opening of the polls. The executive said there were 22,000 such officers under his control.

The first effect of the governor's decree was seen early Monday at Tulsa when more than 100 armed "citizen volunteers" threw a cordon of steel and lead about the Tulsa-co court house and announced they would not let the election proceed.

DIETZLER TO FACE TRIAL ON MURDER CHARGE

Town Of Maine Farmer Bound Over After Preliminary Hearing

While one of the largest crowds in the history of the circuit courtrooms looked on, Henry Dietzler, town of Maine farmer, was bound over by Judge A. M. Spencer of the municipal court Monday for trial in the circuit court for the alleged murder Sept. 20, of Edwin R. Bedor, his neighbor. He was remanded to the county jail to be held without bail until the date of his trial which will be determined by Judge Edgar V. Werner of the circuit court.

Dietzler's preliminary examination was brief, beginning at about 10:15 and closing about 11 o'clock. Only three witnesses were introduced by the state. They were Roy G. Sawyer, Shooner undertaker, Dr. Robert S. Mitchell, who attended Bedor at his operation in St. Elizabeth hospital the evening of the shooting, and Leonard Allen, Maine farmer, the state's star witness, who testified as to Bedor's statement in which he accused Dietzler of the murder.

The prosecution was represented by John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney and F. J. Rooney, counsel. Attorneys L. Hug, Keller and Gustave J. Keller, of the law firm Keller and Keller, represented the defendant. Attorney Paul G. Winter of Shawano, also counsel for the defense, was not present at the hearing.

HAS NOT SPOKEN

No public statement has as yet been made by the accused, as he was not questioned either at the preliminary or the preliminary examination. Even in his cell he refused to talk about the murder. Dietzler was not in the least agitated, or if he was, he failed to show it. From the moment he was conducted into the courtroom by Sheriff Otto H. Zuehlke up to the time he was returned to his cell he was a model of self possession and calm.

Court habits of Paul Kraus, who murdered his wife about 15 years ago has been such a crowd at the courthouse as appeared Monday morning. Before the courthouse had opened motorists from the town of Maine and other distant parts of the county were in the building.

U. S. WILL NOT RISK LOSS TO AID FARMERS

War Finance Corporation Urges Cooperative Marketing On Wheat Growers

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright 1923 by the Post Pub. Co.

Washington—More orderly methods of marketing and the greater use of cooperative marketing associations would, in the opinion of the War Finance corporation, do more good at the present time in relieving the wheat situation than anything else the government could suggest.

This advice was given the committee of bankers from the Ninth Federal Reserve district at the conclusion of their visit here. President Coolidge has let it be known that he will rely on the solution proposed by the War Finance corporation as well as the department of agriculture. The issuance of a statement by the War Finance corporation outlining how extended had been its financial help to the states of North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota and Montana from whence the visiting bankers came was calculated to offset the impression that the government hasn't been doing its utmost to help the farmers of the northwest.

More than 54 per cent of the total loans made by the War Finance corporation to the whole nation are outstanding at present in the four states above mentioned. And the loans of the War Finance corporation exceed by $1,000,000 the loans of the federal reserve system in the same four states. North Dakota alone—seat of the Nonpartisan League's radicalism—has received more money from the War Finance corporation in proportion to its population and the value of its production than any other state in the Union.

COOPERATION IS GREAT AID

Eugene Meyer, head of the War Finance corporation, called the attention of the visiting committee "to the experience of the corporation in arranging advances totaling more than $100,000,000 to cooperative marketing associations, principally to organizations handling cotton, tobacco and rice." He added that the associations have proved more helpful in improving the methods of orderly marketing of American agricultural products and that the loans proved to be safe.

The opinion was expressed by the directors of the War Finance corporation also that "it would be of great benefit to the wheat growers of the entire country if the relatively small operations of the cooperative wheat associations could be extended and developed at the present time."

Mr. Meyer who has been investigating the European wheat situation at first hand explained why "under present conditions of fluctuating exchange, the European buyers do not contract for wheat ahead but buy from hand-mouth and do not come to the normal pre-war stocks of wheat in elevators and mill warehouses."

This situation, he thinks, can not change for the present "and the producing countries must carry the stocks which formerly were carried by the consuming countries; this means for American slower marketing, with warehousing and financing adjusted to slower distribution and emphasize the importance of developing the cooperative marketing associations."

Most of the proposals thus far made for the financing of the American wheat export trade contemplated a scheme whereby the United States government would buy from the American farmers at a fixed price and take the risk or loss due to changing conditions in foreign exchange. There is no sympathy with that line of thought in the executive branch of government and there will be no acceptance of it in congress unless the radicals gain control in which case they might have to reckon with a presidential veto.

G. E. Palmer, fireman, was killed when a box car was burned under the wreckage, while John Stahl, engineer, suffered serious injuries. One brakeman was injured slightly.

Crowd Of 15,000 Demonstrators Assemble In Duesseldorf For Demonstration

FRENCH TROOPS QUELL RIOTS

All Military News Sent From Germany Subject To Censorship

By Associated Press

Duesseldorf—The German version of the outbreak at a Separatist meeting Sunday in which twenty persons were killed and scores wounded maintains that the security police, whom the French hold responsible for starting the shooting made no move until a civilian policeman had been killed by the Separatist "self-protection police." This force, says a statement issued by the city authorities, attacked the blue policeman, took away his sword and had begun to beat him when the security police appeared. Thereupon a shot was fired, the Germans allege, from the ranks of the Separatists. This brought out the rest of the green force and the pitched battle followed.

Friends of the Rhineland Separatist movement had made extensive preparations for Sunday's meeting and 25 train loads of "Rhineland Republicans" came into the city from various Rhineland communities. Forming in a great procession, the demonstrators, numbering about 15,000 but augmented to 40,000 from the ranks of the curious, marched to the Hindenburg Strasse where the Separatist leader Joseph Mathies began a speech.

RUSH AT SPEAKERS

He had said scarcely more than a dozen words when several shots were fired. A small group made a rush for Herr Mathies the police fired a volley. The shooting then became general, causing the despatch of French troops to the scene. According to the French officers the security police refused to obey the orders to cease fire, when French cavalry surrounded the police barracks and after taking several prisoners succeeded in restoring order. Meanwhile the Separatists had become so aroused that they attacked the green police and it was only with difficulty that the military prevented further casualties.

The French stationed guards throughout the city and placed armored cars on duty on the streets. The occupation authorities assert that the security police attacked the demonstrators without provocation. Three policemen, according to this source, were among those killed.

George Muenster Is Killed Instantly By Woman's Auto

Few Plums On Blaine Tree For This Year

Madison—The terms of but few state officials expire during the next year, leaving only a relatively small number of appointments to be made by Governor Blaine, as shown by records in the office of the secretary of state. There are no $5,000 state positions vacant at present, and no terms of officials filing these jobs scheduled to expire during the next year. All of the openings rather are on boards and commissions which pay expenses, or a small per diem, according to the state employ records.

Miss Marie Stephani Of Black Creek Drives Car Which Strikes Him While In Front Of Home—Other Accidents Occur

George Muenster, 33, was instantly killed in front of his home at 694 North at 1:45 Sunday noon when struck by and dragged along on the front end of an automobile driven by Miss Marie Stephani of Black Creek.

Death resulted from a broken neck, and a fracture of the base of the skull, according to the surgeon who attended the man immediately after the accident.

No coroner's inquest was ordered by John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney, as the death, in the opinion of several witnesses, was due to an unavoidable accident.

Several other accidents occurred with but little consequence so far as injuries to persons were concerned. Ervin Hantschel figured in a collision Saturday night near Antigo with a horse and unlighted buggy. A young woman in the vehicle suffered a few scratches and bruises.

ALIGHTED FROM TRUCK

Muenster, it was learned, was returning home from work at the Wisconsin Distributing company. He was driven home in a truck owned by the employees. After the automobile pulled up across the street from his home, Muenster alighted and crossed North at the intersection of Duquesne.

Miss Stephani driving Ford roadster belonging to Lawrence M. Forster, 700 Pacific, noticed the pedestrian, signaled to him and did all in her power, she told the police, to warn the man.

The roadster struck the man full force and carried him on.

RAILWAY MEN ARE ASKING INCREASE

Contracts Expire Oct. 1 And Engineers And Firemen Take Joint Action

Cleveland—Wage increase requests for restoration of schedules in effect before the approximately 12 1/2 per cent reduction handed down by the United States Railroad Labor board in July 1921, were being presented by many railroads Monday by representatives of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, where contracts expire Oct. 1. Joint action was being taken in many instances.

It became known Monday with the announcement by Warren S. Stone, president of the engineers, that a circular on instructions had been mailed to the general chairman and secretary treasurer of all general committees of adjustment of the engineers' brotherhood instructing them to "serve the required thirty day notice on their respective managements at the expiration of the present schedule."

U. S. SUPREME COURT OPENS HARD SEASON

Washington—The supreme court of the United States meeting Monday for its new term after a recess since June, found a heavy docket. All justices returned much refreshed by the vacation rest, and justices McKenna and Holmes, the two senior members, long past the age when they were eligible for retirement, seemed well prepared for their arduous labors.

Only motions including those for admission to practice, were in order Monday, the court after receiving them having decided to adjourn to call in a body at the White House to pay its respect to the president.

The court will hear arguments on Tuesday, docket and it hopes to dispose of the first thirty during the week.

ACTION DELAYED IN WEBB DEATH PROBE

New York—Officials at police headquarters Monday made clear that the city police department was not yet taking action in the investigation of the death of Mrs. Gertrude E. Gorman Webb, wealthy New York and Philadelphia society woman, who died at the Westchester-Sitmore Country club in Rye, N. Y., last Saturday.

It was denied that it had been the intention of local police to question Charles Webb, husband of the deceased.

Mrs. Webb's relatives have indicated an analysis of the dead woman's kidneys be made to discover if she was a victim of poison. She first became ill over a month ago, and gradually grew weaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. T. Hunter charge that Mrs. Webb was the victim of slow poisoning. The symptoms of which she complained, the Hunters said, were identical with those suffered by her mother who died just before the Webb marriage last November.

The mother had strongly objected to Webb's courtship, they added.

Mrs. Webb left an estimated estate of between $2,500,000 and $3,000,000.

BELOIT FIREMAN KILLED BY FALL

TROOPS RESCUE HUNDREDS FROM WYOMING FLOOD

Second Inundation In Three Days Reported Receding At Sheridan

Sheridan, Wyo.—Water from Little Goose creek, which spread over the northern and eastern sections of Sheridan Sunday night, causing the second flood here in three days, was receding Monday. Water from two to five feet deep is standing in many places.

It is impossible to estimate the property damage. A troop of cavalry from the Wyoming National Guard, aided by wagon teams, rescued hundreds of persons. The water came above the level of the wagon boxes and progress was difficult. It is believed, however, that no lives were lost.

HARVESTER FIRM BUCKS DIVISION

St. Paul—Asserting that further division of the International Harvester company would result in making farmers pay more for their implements, attorneys for the corporation Monday filed in the United States district court here an answer to the attorney general's recent petition asking such division.

The company claimed that since the dissolution decreed by the wartime agreement with the government in 1918, the competitive conditions contemplated by the Sherman act had been made fully existent in the business. It was asserted that this 1918 agreement was made because it had destroyed a large portion of the company's foreign trade and because if a dissolution was then decreed "financial operations on a large scale would be required" in the face of highly unfavorable conditions.

The answer points out that changing conditions in agriculture have also operated to prevent the company from having any such monopoly.

TROTZKY SAYS SOVIETS WILL HONOR U. S. PACTS

U. S. AIR MONSTER ENROUTE TO RACE

New Army Dirigible, ZR-1, Encounters Strong Headwinds Which Cuts Speed

Lakehurst, N. J.—Uncle Sam's newest and largest air Leviathan, the ZR-1 left here at 6:59 o'clock Monday morning on the first leg of her trip to St. Louis where the air navy crew will participate in the international air races which begin next Thursday. It was not yet dawn when the ground crew of the big naval dirigible warped her out of the hangar and paid out the cables until she had reached an altitude of 1,000 feet. Mechanics and officers spent more than an hour in a final inspection before everything was pronounced in perfect trim.

At the thousand foot elevation the ZR-1 encountered a 35 mile northwest wind. As she turned her nose to the west, Commander Frank R. McCrary sent a wireless message to the ground saying: "On way to St. Louis and return flying 2,000 feet altitude, speed 44 knots."

Among the 42 officers and men is Col. C. G. Hall of the United States army who is on board as an observer for the army.

MICHIGAN TRIES TO END DISPUTE WITH BADGERS

WYOMING VALLEY SWEEPED BY FLOODS

Crops Wiped Out For 75 Miles By Raging Torrent Which Left Banks

Casper, Wyo.—Desolation grips the valley of the Big Horn river for 75 miles between Thermopolis, Wyo., and Grey Bull, Wyo., with crops wiped out and all ranches flooded. No estimate of the damage has been given. It is understood that the water has reached its highest mark and is started to recede about 3 P. M. Sunday.

Half the residents of Grey Bull were driven from their homes and property damage estimated at a quarter of a million dollars was done in a flood that has covered the town with water from 1 to 4 feet deep since 10 A. M. Saturday. The water came in a swift current, carrying everything in its way that it had the strength to move. It resulted from the swollen waters of Shell creek and Grey Bull and Big Horn rivers. No casualties have been reported.

The flood evidently reached its highest peak at one o'clock Sunday afternoon. At 3:30 it was reported to be about four inches lower.

Nearly all basements of Grey Bull were filled with water. The principal damage was done to the large stocks of merchandise in the basements of stores.

BITUMINOUS COAL MINING

Bituminous mines produce coal at varying cost, even when periods of operation are the same. Statistics for 1918 shows that the outlay in shafts operating twenty-five days a month was from $1.35 to $2.69 a ton; twelve days, from $1.68 to more than $3.06, and one day from $8.55 to $29.81. Some workers are paid by the month and overhead expense and interest on investment continue uninterruptedly. The figures have been made public by the United States coal commission. If mines fired to produce most economically could be kept in operation steadily, and shafts with an excessive cost closed, prices could be much lower and still provide mine operators with a handsome profit.

Three of the principal factors entering into mining irregularly have been lack of a dependable car supply, seasonable demand, and strikes. The shortage of cars has not in the last two years been as great in most parts of the country as it was in the war period and the years immediately after. Seasonal demand continues to large extent. There still is a disposition in some quarters to blame the public for this, but as far as householders are concerned, the criticism has less merit than formerly. When a campaign to educate householders to the importance of buying in the summer was showing good results, summer coal prices were pushed up, and in the last three years, the difference between summer and winter prices has been diminishing. People do not like to tie their money up in a product they will not use for some time unless they can save something.

Strikes, or even strike threats, raise prices by creating an abnormal demand and causing consumers to anticipate fuel wants for longer periods than usual. Resulting panic prices provide a margin of profit that gives to operators with mines poorly equipped for economical production an income that is satisfactory and keeps them in business. Each of these factors helps to keep tens of thousands more men engaged in digging coal than would be necessary, if it were not for long shutdowns. They figure that they ought to get enough pay for the time they work to keep them when they do not work, which also helps to explain why fuel costs are such an important factor in budgets.

WHY THE PAST APPEALS

Facts and figures frequently are marshaled to show that the present is better than the past. In arriving at that conclusion, emphasis is put on material progress. The jump from pony express to airplane in carrying mail within sixty years is a convincing evidence of advancement in transportation. What scores of men were required to accomplish a half century ago, now is often done by a lone machine, and in a fraction of the time. Material wealth is utilized in a variety of ways formerly undreamed of. There is steel of numerous kinds, each fitted for a particular purpose, where there used to be no variety. In quantity and quality of tangible goods the present is without a peer. Yet yearning for what many like to term "the good old days" has not diminished. In fact, it has not increased in recent years.

Some will say that the glamour of the past is a result of memory dwelling more on the agreeable things than it does on the drab of pioneer experiences. There is none who wishes to turn the clock back to the middle of the nineteenth century in everything. The material development is something not only to be accepted, but to be welcomed and appreciated. The quarrel is not with that, but with the misuse that is sometimes made of it. The demand concerns justice in distribution, a policy that gives no individual or concern, laborer or capitalist, a larger proportion of the fruits of economic development than the contribution made justifies.

When the United States was mostly agricultural and there was plenty of free land, a man's destiny in an economic way was largely in his own hands. Society was far more simple in its workings than at present. The complexities of agriculture and industrial life were hardly glimpsed. But the interrelation of affairs grew, and with it some of the old individuality disappeared. Men were more dependent on each other and more affected by the course of others. Now when an individual or concern in a strategic position does an unfair act, its influence is widespread. The yearning for "the good old days" is a wish for, not the pony express, but an adjustment of human relations that will give persons a better economic status.

DAMAGES TO FOREIGN PROPERTY

As a preventive of war, paying the price is unsurpassed. When any people begins to realize that conflict causes more and more trouble, and it is cheaper and more satisfactory to have peace, its psychology is such that it is open to conviction, if not to reason.

Mexico is settling to the quiet ways of living, and at once it is finding that being recognized officially by the United States is not only the first step to prosperity, but also to debt-paying. Mexico is learning that its obligations were not wiped out by restoration of order, but, in fact, only began to be effective.

So far claims of $250,000,000 have been filed against the Obregon government for damages to foreign property during the revolution. Of course, this total represents but a small part of the claims that surely will be filed.

SPAIN AND ITALY

Spain and Italy are constitutional monarchies whose kings have limited powers granted them by the people. The people elect the lower houses of the legislatures, control the parties, and through the parties control the government. Yet both these nations have now abdicated constitutional rule in favor of dictators—Rivers and Mussolini.

These men in their present offices are sad evidence of an admission by the Spanish and Italian people that they are not capable of governing themselves by the ordinary rule of the majority. For in each case the cause of overthrowing the constitutional authorities and superseding the legislature by force was a situation which in the United States or any stable democracy would be settled normally and peaceably at the polls. The Spaniards did not like the way a war was being conducted; yet the ministers conducting it were of their own choosing. The Italians feared the growth of bolshevism; yet the majority had the power at all times of voting the means to combat it and the laws to expel it.

In effect the abdication of the people of Spain and Italy is as much as to say; "Democracy and majority rule may be a splendid ideal, but we are incapable, so far at least, of applying it. We find it too clumsy, or ourselves too clumsy in its use, to meet national perils. Having taken despotic power from our kings, we find that we must hand it back to a dictator. Mistrusting control by the majority, we must place ourselves again in the hands of an active and energetic governing minority."

One fool bigger than a big fool is a fool who doesn't know it.
If justice really keeps people awake preachers should not condemn it.
Let people talk about themselves and they enjoy your conversation.
What's sauce for the goose is apple sauce for the gander.
A little more self-interest. What they need is self-suggestion.

SWIMMERS' CORYZA

It is now generally known that swimming pools may become polluted or contaminated from the excretions or discharges of persons using the pool, and that precautions must be taken constantly to prevent the spread of various infectious diseases in this way. To that end it is generally required that every swimmer take a bath immediately before entering the pool; in the places where good hygiene prevails some sort of medical inspection is required for those who want to use the pool. A swimming pool is a large bath tub with the dangers of the common tub multiplied in much greater proportion than the amount of water, for people who will venture into the common or family tub generally have the water changed. In the swimming pool we all use the same water; some of us haven't enough health resistance to refrain from going in when we have a cold, and some of us have a disease which is possibly communicable or infectious.

A considerable number of swimmers using pools suffer with coryza after a swim. According to the old superstition they've simply "taken cold" because they stayed in too long or maybe got their feet wet. As most intelligent folk know, now this swimming coryza is a matter of infection from the polluted water. It is hard to keep many swimmers from expectorating in the water, especially if they get some water into their noses or mouths. Plenty of swimmers in pools who consider themselves cleanly do not hesitate to spit in the pool. Plenty of people encouraged and supported by some of our old-fashioned health authorities who still teach that "exposure to cold" is the important factor, lack the health conscience which prompts an honest individual to isolate himself when he has even a slight coryza. The potential disease spreading capacity of a swimmer who goes in when he has "just a little cold" can be weighed only when we recall that some score or more of the most potent and most common diseases are respiratory infections beginning as "just a slight cold."

Frequent or constant change of the water, and constant chemical disinfection are both useful and necessary precautions in any swimming pool, but even these precautions fall short of making a pool absolutely safe for all swimmers.

Some physicians or nose and throat specialists are disposed to dwell on the "chilling effect lowering resistance." Others believe the entrance of water into the nose is itself sufficiently irritating to enable any bacteria present to gain entrance into the mucous membrane, and that is infection. Remember, the mere presence of germs within the nose, passages, throat, or lungs, does not mean that the germs must invade the tissues before any disease happens. Any experienced nose and throat specialist who has encountered many cases of middle ear and mastoid infection which were caused by swimmer's coryza advises plunging both nostrils before entering the pool, and breathing through the mouth. Lamin's wool not too firmly pressed into the nostrils is best for the purpose. Those who use it escape the headache and discomfort caused by water getting into the nose. Such a plugging is a fairly good way of keeping the germs out of the nose; pool swimmers might well adopt it as a routine practice.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Please inform me through your column how long it usually takes to complete treatment for neurasthenia?—A. E. D.

Answer—I have completed the treatment of a case of neurasthenia in 20 minutes; again, I hadn't completed the treatment in another case after four years of it when the patient tired and quit having any more. Neurasthenia is just imagination. The patient whose treatment I hadn't completed in four years settled down with gallstones finally. I know it was gallstones because I saw the stones with my naked eye. As beautiful a case of neurasthenia as ever went the rounds, too. The symptoms were typical, particularly the gastric disturbances.

Corn and callus remedy.—P. O. K.
Answer—Paint corn or callus (not bunion, however) with a solution of 30 grains of salicylic acid in half an ounce of flexible collodion once daily for a week or two; then it will soften and come away. A nightly soaking of the foot in hot water helps. (Copyright, National Newspaper Service.)

China Etiquette Stumps Traveler

(Bassett Digby, in The Express and Telegraph (China).)
Barbarians we were when we came jostling into China 50 years ago, and barbarians we are today. In the eyes of this ancient race, set in the ways to which it has been accustomed for 2,000 years or so, we simply do not know how to behave. We are hectoring, and incomprehending bores, steeped in sins of omission and commission.

We use newspapers, and other paper bearing printed characters, for wrapping up parcels. To degrade the dignity of print like this is as Philistine as to take a Wedgewood bowl from the drawing-room table and put it in the stable yard as a drinking receptacle for the dogs. We do not even take off our spectacles, and keep them off, when we meet and talk to a Chinese gentleman who is our elder. (If he too, wears glasses he will take them off while the conversation lasts.) We look magistrates and high officials straight in the eye when we talk to them, thus exhibiting a childish frontality. We should, of course, look at their chest, not their face.

FOREIGNERS A NUISANCE

We have a boorish offhand way of asking our way of a passing Chinese. Rarely, if ever, do we bow, raising our hands submissively to our breasts, and address him as "venerable sir." We make ourselves a nuisance to officials who are our friends by catching their eye when they ride by in their sedan chairs. This obliges them to halt their bearers, climb out, and exchange tedious ceremonial greetings. If the very seeds of courtesy were in us we should turn the other way or veil our faces with a fan rather than cause this inconvenience. It would never occur to us to behave like Chinese gentlemen of high official rank, who are frequently accompanied on their peregrinations by servants carrying huge fans, with which they run forward and screen their respective masters when another chair-ridering high official looms up ahead. By this means a formal recognition and ensuing ceremonies are skillfully avoided.

We are even so disrespectful as to pass a book, a cigarette, or a photograph to another gentleman with one hand. We should, of course, use both hands, unless we wish to insult him by insinuating that he is our social inferior. When a friend's house has been burned down we are such mean folk that we do not all hasten to send him a present, so that he has something with which to resume house-keeping. (There have been cases, notoriously one in Amoy, where officials with whom a large section of the public desired to curry favor found themselves after a fire glutted their dwelling, possessed of so many gifts of money and furniture that they set up establishments on a far more imposing scale than before.)

ARM SHOULD HANG

We give offense by mismanaging our legs and arms. We fliget with our arms instead of letting them hang straight down our sides when we are standing, and we cross our legs when we sit down, instead of keeping both feet neatly on the ground. Walking, we swing our arms and hold our head high, glancing around at what interests us instead of letting our arms hang limply, as if they were broken, and staring straight ahead of us at the ground. We do not belch at dinner time as a polite tribute to our host's bounty and the delicacy of his viands. We do not attempt to conceal our wishes and other symptoms of distress when a Chinese noisily clears his throat. To the Chinese there is nothing more disgusting about clearing the throat loudly than in a loud sneeze. He simply cannot perceive the difference—and after debating the point with a Chinese friend, I must admit that he has the logic on his side.

A. They are classed as minerals.

A. When George Washington was inaugurated the first time, he added the same words.

PRISON RELIEF HIS LIFE TASK

Washington—Is the criminal as black as he's painted? Generally not, says Earl E. Dunning, head of the Prisoners' Relief Society, with headquarters in Washington.

Dunning himself spent four years in the Mountaineer (W. Va.) prison, following conviction on a charge of second degree murder. His plea was self-defense.

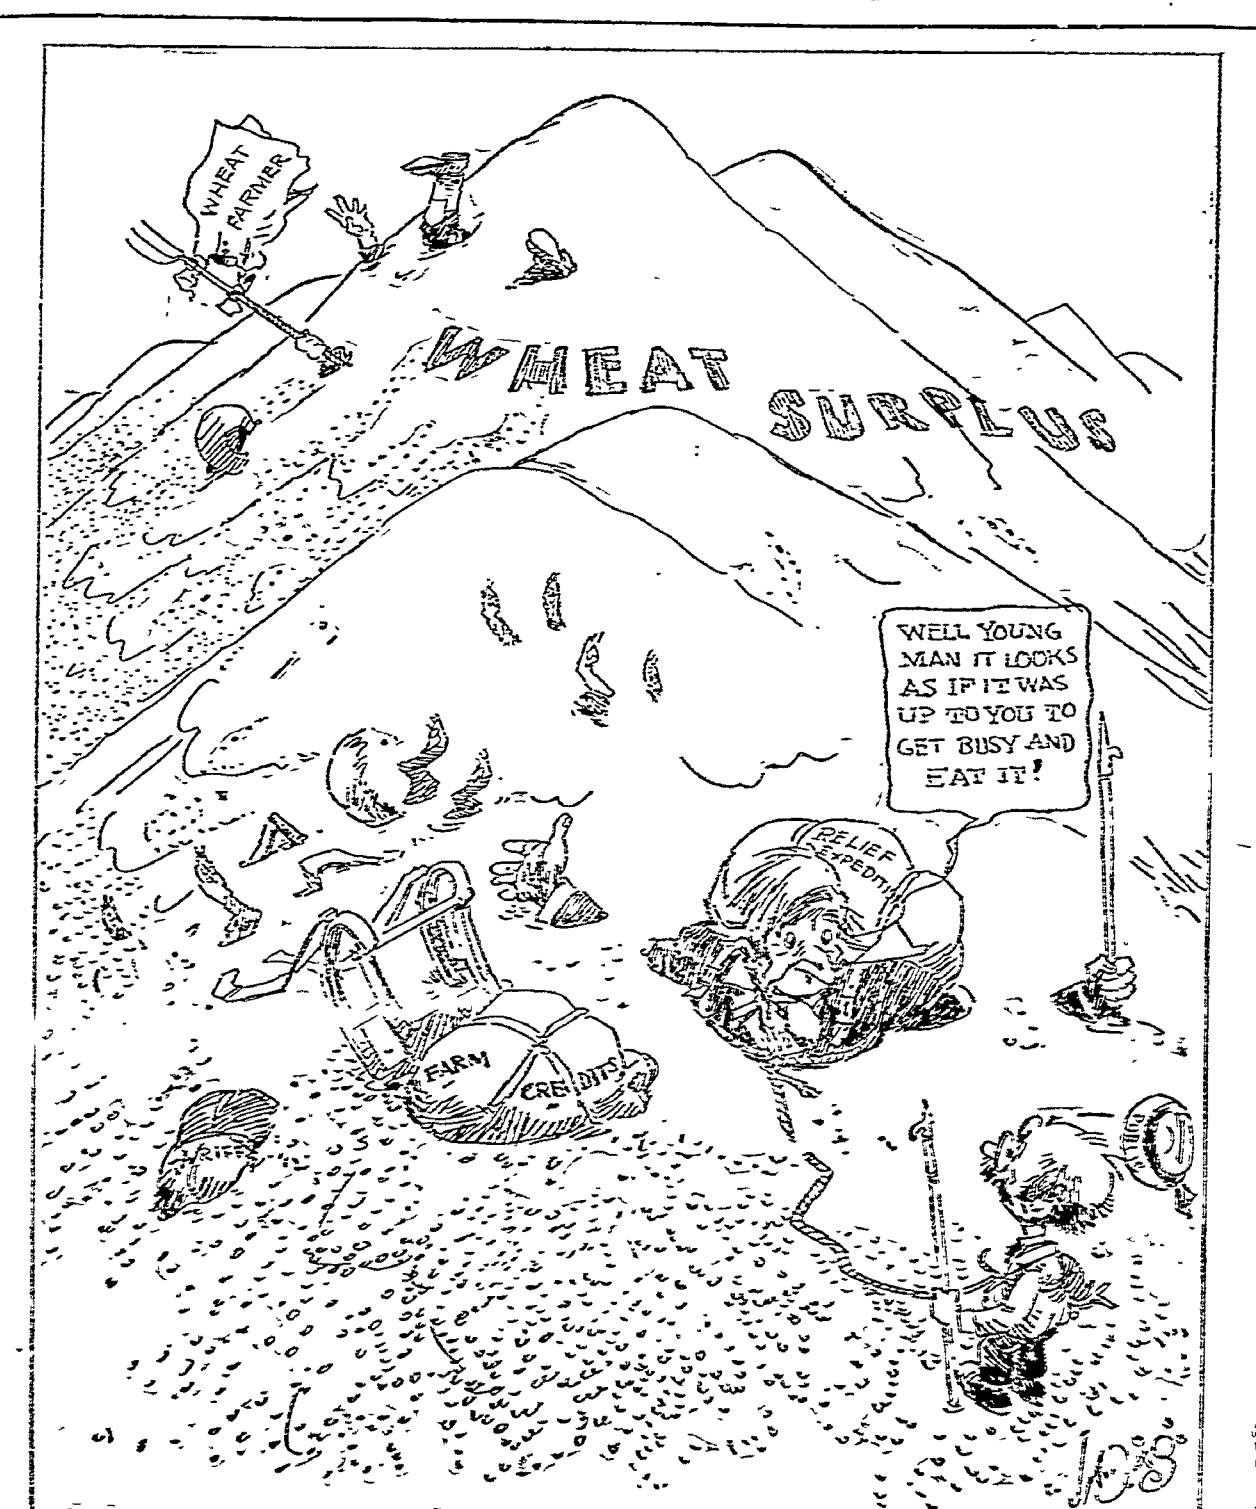

Released, he devoted his life to relieving both within and without the bars the lot of men who had fallen afoul of the law.

He finds jobs for thousands of convicts released from the country's penitentiaries, and so well has he established his contention that the average convict is a victim of circumstances rather than a "born criminal," that today 28,000 representative employers of labor take his word as a bond for any convict trying to win back to respectability.

"And more than 84 per cent of such men," says Dunning, "have made good. Of the few who slip, the greater number are mental defectives."

Elks Will Bring Noted Singer Here

Irene Pavloska To Present Concert At Chapel Wednesday Evening October 31

Irene Pavloska, mezzo-soprano of Chicago Opera Co., will appear in recital here on the evening of Oct. 31 under auspices of Elk lodge. Her concert will be the means of providing the order with funds for the coming year's charity activities.

Miss Pavloska is one of the foremost soloists of the country and has achieved a great triumph in her opera roles. Her concert here is expected to be one of the most musical events of the season.

W. H. Ryan is chairman of the committee which has the arrangements in charge, and the other members are Charles A. Green, Daniel P. Steinberg and Dr. E. C. Schmidt. These men expect to launch the sale of tickets within a few days.

Every year Elk lodge raises a fund of $500 to $1,000 for its charitable activities. This has been accomplished usually by having a hotel talent party or minstrel show and in the last two years by entertaining the state Elk bowling tournament. This year an offer was made the lodge of an engagement by this prominent soloist, and a contract was signed.

The committee will endeavor to fill every seat in the chapel, at a uniform price of one dollar for admission. Reservations are to be made later and the war tax paid at that time. Enough will be earned for the charity expenses if the house is sold to its capacity.

COURTSHIP IN AIR; WEDDING ON EARTH

By Associated Press
Los Angeles — Aerial courtship—but a wedding on earth!

When an aviator and an aviatrix wed, one might suppose the ceremony would be held in the clouds.

But Captain Cyril Turner, British ace and sky writer, and Andree Pavre, French girl, thought that the ordinary matter-of-fact man-of-earth way would do for them.

Mrs. Turner owns her own plane and loves to jaunt around in space. She has an altitude record of 15,000 feet.

The romance started when the young bride met Turner in France. It was there she had learned to fly. An aerial courtship followed—and then, well, they just simply decided to get married while here.

GERMAN GIRL STUDENTS WORK AT UNIQUE TRADES

Dresden—Ringling church bells is the occupation a girl student in one of the German universities has adopted as a means of piecing out her inadequate income. She also did factory work and mending until a gift from the students of Vassar college provided her with money enough to buy meal tickets for the students' mess. Now she is able to devote more time to her studies. The students' mess gives two hot meals a day at a cost in American money of two cents, but many of the women students cannot afford even this small sum.

Many girls at trying to live on only one hot meal a day, and consequently the number forced to leave the universities and high schools because of illness is very large. Even the two hot meals provided in the messes fall far short of providing adequate nourishment. They contain no meat or fats of any sort, and are chiefly vegetables and cereals.

LITTLE CHUTE BAND TO BE REORGANIZED AT MEETING OCT. 10

Organization Will Be Incorporated—VanImbergen To Be Instructor

Special to Post-Crescent: Little Chute—Reorganization of the band at Little Chute along the most modern lines will take place at a general meeting of musicians of the village Wednesday evening, Oct. 10, in the village hall. It is expected that incorporation of the band will take place at that time.

The former Valley band and the Little Chute Cornet Band will formally pass out of existence at this meeting, and a new organization using the most modern standards will take its place.

It is the plan of the musicians to start building a band that will be one of the most prominent in this section. Anton VanImbergen of Kimberly, who had two years' experience in army bands and as conductor of the band at Kimberly for nine years, has been engaged as instructor. Stephen W. Peeters is acting as manager until the incorporation has been completed and officers are elected.

Rehearsals are to be held regularly in the village hall, through courtesy of the village board in granting this privilege.

The personnel of the new band is to include: Stephen M. Peeters, slide trombone; Richard Peeters, baritone; Henry Derks, Nicholas Derks, Albert J. Van Dyke, Alvin Frank Van Dyke, tenor; Henry J. Hietanen, Joseph Koska, Arnold Van Asten, Elmer Jansen, Gregory Hartjes, Raymond Williamson, slide trombone; Leon LaRue, Charles Seggink, Cyril Peeters, Julius Schommer, Nicholas De Bruin, Bernard Van Den Boem, M. W. Van Asten and Clarence Peeters, cornets.

POWER STATION TO COST MILLION

Northern States Power Co. Starts Construction Of Huge Substation

Eau Claire—This city will be the center of great construction activities recently started by the Northern States Power Co., successors of the Wisconsin-Minnesota Light & Power Co. A substation at Wisconsin costing $1,000,000, building of miles of high tension lines and smaller substations in this district will be undertaken. J. M. Clark is manager of the local office of the Blytheby Engineering and Management corporation of Chicago. William T. Walker is in charge of the work here. P. A. Peterson, Eau Claire, will have charge of all transmission line building in this section.

Besides construction of the large substation at Wisconsin, work has been started on substations at Colby and Red Wing, which will cost $20,000 and $40,000, respectively.

Location of central offices here will mean that purchasing of supplies will be done here both for construction and for feeding and housing of workmen. Construction operations at Jim Falls have been completed with the exception of placing some 1000 feet of wire. The substation will control 16,000 horsepower generated at the Jim Falls power plant which can be sent to Wisconsin or Minneapolis as directed from the Eau Claire office. The substation will cost approximately $100,000. The substation started at Wisconsin will be 10 times larger. A crew of from 50 to 100 men will be employed there.

Freeman was welcomed back to Madison and apparently forgiven by the wife he tried to divorce. She sat beside him in the courtroom and even visited him at the police station.

Freeman was arrested at Phillips Thursday afternoon. Detective Robert Putman, who brought him back, was unable to find Miss Margaret Behlmore, former Madison girl, also charged with giving false testimony in the divorce trial.

STANDARD NAMES FOR PLANTS. PLAN

Chicago—The chaotic state of affairs in the miscalling of names of flowers, plants and other perennials, has made necessary the standardization of their names, and a report on the subject has been adopted by the American Association of Nurserymen. The compilation of names of these perennials, the result of more than five years of actual work on the part of the sub-committee of the American Joint Committee of Horticulturalists, is heralded as a great stride forward in the horticultural world.

As an example, the committee pointed out that there are more than 2,000 names for roses. Many names are used for the same rose, and this has resulted in complication. With the completion of the new nomenclature, it is hoped that use of the standard names will become general.

Standardized perennials names, both common and scientific, will benefit the public and the grower, according to the committee, and will tend to eliminate unfair practices. Heretofore growing, buying and selling have been largely guess work, the committee said, and based on personal equation rather than on fair, square, open and accepted business standards.

DECREASE IN JAPANESE SILK EXPORTS IS NOTED

Tokio—There has been a marked decrease this year in the export of raw silk to America due, according to a report of the Board of Agriculture, to increased import duties imposed by America and the appreciation of quotations on the Kokohama market.

There also has been a falling off in the exports to England, owing to the depression in the re-export trade of British silk manufacturers. The same is true of the export of silk textiles to Australia and the South Sea Islands, but there has been an improvement in the Indian trade, recovery in the exchange market helping the business there.

GAS DEALER CUTS PRICE TO 12 CENTS

Janesville Man Wants To Find Out Whether This Is a Free Country

Janesville—Gasoline sold last week at the J. A. Strimple filling station for 12 cents for low test and 15 cents for high test, the lowest figure here in six or seven years. This was a cut of 4 cents on the low test and 3 on the high. Other stations are selling for 15 and 19 cents.

Mr. Strimple declared he could see no reason why his action should cause any more worry than that of a butcher, who might sell meat at a cut price, or a garage which cut tire prices. He pointed to the price of gasoline last spring when he sold for 22 cents, buying for 21 cents, making approximately 8 1/2 per cent. At 12 cents he is making approximately the same profit.

"I am going to see whether this is a free and independent country," Mr. Strimple said, "and whether I as a retailer can make my own price for gasoline or whether someone else will say what I sell for. For years the price of gasoline has been dictated by a few men. It is time things changed."

The cut price created a furor among dealers here. Independents have indicated there will be no price cut by them. It is generally expected the price will be met by the Standard Oil Co. Some oil men here feel the cut will have as far-reaching an effect as similar moves by individual dealers have had in other states.

KLAN NULLIFYING GREAT PRINCIPLE OF CHRISTIANITY

Dr. Peabody Declares Invisible Empire Is Menace To Civilization

The Ku Klux Klan movement is away from the brotherhood of man and toward a nullifying of the great principles of Christianity, Dr. H. E. Peabody declared in a sermon on "What Is Behind the Ku Klux Klan" in First Congregational church on Sunday. Dr. Peabody blamed an inflamed conscience, which is even more dangerous than greed, for the Klan movement.

He compared the Klan's method of operating with the method of the forces, hatred and suspicion while the Klan used persuasion and love. "The Ku Klux Klan is a symptom of a far greater malady," Dr. Peabody said, "it is not the disease itself, nor its cure but only a symptom."

"The subject of this sermon is not the Ku Klux Klan, but rather that which is behind it. Two things are behind it, first many wrongs to be righted, and second, a misunderstanding of the principles of Christ. Our object is to make clear and enthrone these principles of Christ."

"Think first of some of the wrongs in the land that need righting. Our daily paper recently said and with force that there is probably more secret and open violation of law in the United States than in any other country in the world, more murders and lynchings. Both individuals who break the law and officials who fail to enforce it talk jokingly and even boastfully of this lawlessness. Wealthy men become a party to bootlegging and moonshining and then wonder why employees go on strike and flout the law."

"A man drives his automobile fifty miles an hour in defiance of the right of others and then wonders why his robes are stolen from his car. On one side justice is delayed by red tape or thwarted by the use of big money in our law courts, and people wonder why radicals have taken to the law and believe that that revolution is the only way to get justice and good government."

"We cannot expect one set of laws to be legally ignored or legally evaded, and another set of laws obeyed or enforced. If Herrin massacres go unpunished at home, we cannot wonder if Italy tramples on Greece abroad. These are only a few of the wrongs that cry to heaven for righting. Until now not only the self-interest of men is on the defensive, but their conscience also is aroused. And an inflamed conscience is a powerful thing. It is a power more dangerous even than greed. A perverted or confused conscience, seizing hold upon a people has often drenched the nations in blood. Conscience often makes men heroes in a bad cause. As President Coolidge has said, 'Greed has made many a coward, but has never made a hero.' Now the Ku Klux Klan is an eruption of the inflamed conscience of men. This secret society has started out to right wrongs. And our consciences also are kindling against these wrongs. Therefore our first impulse may be sympathy with the Klan."

LOSE SYMPATHY

"But our sympathy is staggered when we read in a report, published in the newspapers, and I think, never denied such words as these in a speech about negroes by the imperial wizard. 'These apes are going to line up at the polls, mixed up there with white men and women—that is the most disgusting sight you ever saw.'—We believe in the disfranchisement of the negro. We exclude Jews because they do not believe in the Christian religion. We exclude the Catholics because they owe allegiance to a foreign pope, etc. the Pope. If indeed we have a great invisible and mysterious force that will strike terror into the heart of lawbreakers." In other reported speeches their officers have spoken in similar terms of foreign born American citizens because they cannot really understand our institutions. They seem to forget Lincoln and Lafayette and Carl Schurz who helped us to gain our freedom and reason.

"Now we are all in danger of misjudging the Klan, because the propaganda of their principles is not open, with the aim to persuade and educate the ignorant. They speak and act mainly in the dark. They are largely to blame if I and other conscientious citizens are wrongly informed about them."

And now let us bring this movement of an inflamed conscience, sprung against real wrongs up into the light of Christ's principles and Christ's spirit. It is significant to learn that at times bands of masked men in the south march into a church service, interrupt it if the minister is willing, and dramatically offer the church a contribution of money to carry on its work. These are probably conscientious men, patriotically and dangerously conscientious.

Let us do two things here in our purpose to bring this movement before the judgment-seat of Christ. Let us compare its standards of justice with His standards, and then compare its methods of establishing justice with His methods. These men feel passionately that their ends justify their means. So we will examine their ends first of all.

We will Christ's standards of righteousness and justice and compare with their standards. The first, all controlling article in Christ's constitution of his Kingdom of Heaven on earth is, 'Treat all men as brothers, because God is the Father of the whole human family.' If Christianity does not stand for that, it does not stand for anything and to nullify that first article of its constitution in the name of religion is a move to set up another constitution, and that other religion should have another name than the name of Christ. The Klan movement seems to be away from brotherhood instead of toward it. Racial prejudice and suspicion and hatred is probably the greatest danger of this

NO VACATIONS TO FREE KIDS TO PICK UP SPUDS THIS YEAR

Potato vacations are a thing of the past. It is not because farmers are raising less potatoes, but school periods have been rearranged so as to make such vacations unnecessary. In former years some schools opened in August and then closed for a week or two in September to allow the children time to help their parents at potato picking. At present there are no more schools opening as early as in August.

Eight unmounted photographs of her were taken at the jail Saturday to be sent to immigration authorities at Chicago. The woman emigrated from Bohemia.

WEIGHT FALLS ON MAN'S HEAD AND SCALP IS CUT

Theodore Wikman suffered injuries to his scalp Saturday morning when a weight fell upon his head while employed in the Riverside Pulp and Paper company mill. He was conveyed in a Kunitz taxicab to the office of a surgeon where his wound was dressed and then conveyed to his home on Third-st. A gash was made in his scalp, but the injury was not serious.

modern day not only our religious but to our republic and our civilization. Why blink that matter or evade it? It takes it that position needs no further argument or elaboration before an intelligent Christian congregation. It seems as if it must be a conscious and an inflamed conscience that would undertake to call itself Christian, and at the same time practically deprecate that principle.

So much for the ends of the Klan, its moral standards of justice. Now as to its means. Let us compare its method of establishing justice with Christ's methods. I heard Professor Henry D. Brown say once that the method of the middle ages in dealing with a heretic, or an ignorant disturber of the peace was to burn him. While the method of Jesus was to teach him. We have no manner of doubt that Christ's method was the method of good-will, the persuasion of the truth, brotherly love, confidence in every man's better self and in his improvable. Furthermore his method was the open and broadcast teaching of the truth. As his apostle said 'This thing has not been done in a corner' nor in the dark.

"Now as far as we can get at the truth about the Klan, its main reliance is on the power of suspicion, of prejudice against all its fellow-citizens who are not of its intellectual beliefs, its color and blood and its national birth-place. This temper of suspicion runs down into hatred and fear, as naturally as water runs down hill, and it breeds suspicion and hatred among its neighbors far and near as well as among its members."

"Its motives seem bluntly opposed to Christ's motives. 'It would divide our citizenship into suspicious hostile camps. It capitalizes bigotry and intolerance. 'Its principles and secret methods unwittingly attract to its membership every man with a private grudge or spite, who is secretly looking for a chance to vent his malice and revenge in the dark and without being punished for it. The Klan doubtless suffers from these allies and always will suffer. The evil inherent in their principles and their method."

"From the point of view of our republican institutions and free government few things are more essentially dangerous to them than any widespread system of invisible government which usurps the power given only to our lawful magistrates. This is doubly so when these usurping group represent irresponsible government, responsible neither to the people nor to any body else."

"Granting that these men often mean well, and that they have for the time being cleaned their consciences of outrageous immorality and shameless officials, yet their method of doing it, and their motives in doing it, defeat the very ends they seek. They carry us back into the middle ages, to a condition where popular government is impossible, back to the secret inquisition, and back to the 'letters de cachet' of irresponsible absolutism. America needs no such defenders. Protectantism welcomes no such champions."

"My Sweetie Went Away" was with our debut one of the most popular pieces last week at the local music shops according to reports made Friday by the music dealers. ## ACCIDENT BLOCKS TRAFFIC AT 2 A. M.

String Of Cars Held Up By Collision In "Wee Sma" Hours Of Morning

One does not expect much travel on the county highways at 2 o'clock in the morning, yet there were enough motorists on the road at that hour Saturday morning to completely paralyze traffic for nearly a half hour.

Sheriff Otto H. Zuehlke and Under-Sheriff Otto Wickert were called to Potato Point to restore order out of chaos that had resulted from a collision between the automobiles of Sheldon Stammer, Appleton, and G. E. Donagan, Washburn, and Chicago. The latter was driving toward Green Bay at the time. The fenders and running board of the Chicago car were damaged, while the front wheels of the Stammer car were nearly turned around. In a few minutes scores of automobiles had gathered and the drivers had gathered and clamored for "Wee Sma." The automobiles increased in number constantly, but there seemed to be no way of getting through. When the officers arrived, a free for all fight was about due. Everybody was "cussing" somebody.

After ten minutes the officers had the damaged cars off the road and the traffic moving.

2,200 HUNTERS' LICENSES SOLD

Only Three Women Have Applied For Permits To Hunt This Year

An order for ten more books containing 500 hunting licenses has been placed by John E. Hantschel, county clerk. This will make 3,000 licenses to be added to this office. Hunters are actually numerous this fall, as the 750 licenses sold by the clerk and the 500 license stubs returned by subscribers indicate. It is estimated that about 2,200 licenses have been sold by the clerk and other persons.

Women hunters are scarce this year. Thus far only three huntresses have applied for licenses. It is expected, however, that near the deer hunting season, more women will apply for licenses in order to accompany their husbands on the deer hunt. A total of 330 deer tags have thus far been sold. Trappers also are beginning to prepare for the trapping season. Although only 16 licenses have been sold, the sixteen hunters have purchased no fewer than 455 trappers tags. Duck hunters have purchased 60 live decoy tags.

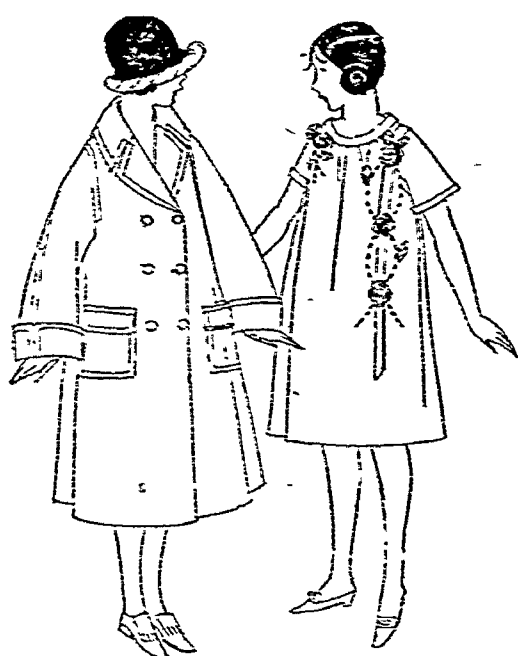

Nonresident fishing licenses have shown an unusual sale this summer and fall. A total of 85 nonresident fishing licenses were sold. Fishermen also purchased 25 set line licenses.

FALL PLOUGHING IS GETTING UNDERWAY

Farmers Are Clearing Their Fields Of Last Of 1923 Crops

Farming activities in this community have taken on the aspect of autumn in spite of the balmy weather that the farmers have been enjoying for the last week or two.

Practically all of the grain has now been threshed and stored in the granaries or taken to market. The days of a few scattered threshing machines which started work in early July and finished about the time of the first or second snow fall are past, and farmers are now able to get their threshing out of the way in due season.

With the grain, potato and corn fields clear, ploughing is starting. The recent rains have put the ground in good condition for that work.

Snappy Days Of Fall Don't Stop Touring

The melancholy days of autumn have not been the saddest of the year to struggling tourists, it is clear from the balmy days that they have been enjoying in Wisconsin the last two weeks.

On Thursday night this outdoor hospitality had between 35 and 40 guests of automobile parties coming from five different states, namely, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan, Illinois and Texas.

The longest trip was made by the Texas party which has been touring in Canada and is now returning to the Lone Star state.

A Minnesota party has been making Appleton as its headquarters, so to speak, and has been making "flights" in all directions from here.

A trip around Lake Michigan was the experience of the Michigan automobile party. The Wisconsin motorists have been driving through the state, and the Illinois people are returning from camping up north.

The latter expect to return to Anigo next spring to open a restaurant there.

They will determine whether the men are qualified to hold positions as deputy conservation wardens under the new plan. Game wardens will be organized into districts with a head appointed for each district.

The schedule of hearings throughout the state is as follows: Oshkosh, Oct. 2; Greer Bay, Oct. 3; Rhinelander, Oct. 4; Ashland, Oct. 5; Superior, Oct. 5; Eau Claire, Oct. 5; Lancaster, Oct. 15; La Crosse, Oct. 17; Janesville, Oct. 18; Milwaukee, Oct. 21.

O. H. Johnson, state fire marshal, will accompany Garay and Hall and will quit all deputy fire marshals stationed at points to be visited. He will also issue new orders at this time in regard to fire prevention and the reporting of fires to the office of the state fire marshal here.

Many Wisconsin cities are offering to cooperate in fire prevention week, according to letters received by Hugh G. Corbett of Appleton, president of the Wisconsin Association of Commercial Secretaries.

SCHOOL CHILDREN MAY EARN TRIP TO MILWAUKEE FAIR

Corbett Attends Meeting Where December Exposition Plans Are Made

Six Outagamie county children may have the privilege of seeing the Wisconsin Product Exposition in Milwaukee in December without any expense to themselves under an essay contest plan which the director of the exhibit expects to put into operation.

This was learned by Hugh G. Corbett who attended a meeting of the board Friday in Milwaukee as a representative of the Wisconsin Association of Commercial Secretaries, of which he is president.

Arrangements also were made for discussion meetings for farmers, teachers and manufacturers during the exhibit. Herman Hoge of Neenah, who is on the special committee to arrange for state business men and farmer meetings, also attended at the invitation of the board and figured in the discussion of this matter.

Mr. Corbett explained that all school pupils in every county in Wisconsin will be asked to write essays on "Wisconsin" under a set of rules which will be formulated. The manuscripts are to be no identification except a notation as to whether written by a boy or girl.

These essays will be judged in each county by persons selected for that purpose. The best three written each by boys and girls will be sent to Milwaukee. Each of the six successful essay writers will be given a trip to the exposition with all expenses paid.

These contestants will be asked to review the exposition and then write another essay containing their impressions. The best essay of the latter group will win a prize of $100.

Inasmuch as the forenoon during the exposition will have no particular activity plans are on foot to arrange conferences of men of various lines of business and farmers during such periods, similar to the get-together meeting of these groups recently in Milwaukee.

Discussions will take place after leading speakers have been heard. Barney Bartch, Julius Barnes, Henry Wallace, United States secretary of agriculture, and others will be asked to speak.

A Wisconsin pageant also will be arranged, using data from historical cities. Dairying will have the most prominent place in the exposition, occupying the best location of Milwaukee auditorium on the main floor.

TRANSFER EXTORTION CASE TO FOND DU LAC

Shobergan—Judge Kirwan on Friday granted a change of venue to Charles F. Werner, accused with Jerry Metscher of extorting $1,300, the life savings of Herman Stelter. Metscher recently was found guilty of the charge. The case against Werner will be tried in Judge Fowler's court at Fond du Lac.

The case has attracted a great deal of attention in the eastern part of the state. The two men were said to have held a threat of arrest over the head of Stelter, saying he had committed some lawbreaking act, which the old man believed until his money was gone. He then went to the district attorney here and arrest to Metscher and Werner followed.

Metscher admitted he received some of the money extorted from Stelter, but Werner denies he had any part in the case.

GIRL GIVEN $2,000 FOR INJURY CAUSED BY BALL

Through her guardian ad litem she claimed her face was permanently disfigured by the injury.

Victims Of Dry Law Fill Jail In Douglas-Co

Superior—Because the Douglas-county jail is so full of convicted bootleggers awaiting transportation to the Milwaukee house of correction and other institutions that there simply is not room for any more, Federal District Judge C. Z. Luse was forced to admit liquor law violators sentenced by him Saturday morning to $2,000 bail until present occupants of the jail have been removed or the federal marshal is ready to take them away.

Phil Gannon, former member of the Wisconsin assembly from the first Douglas-county district, found guilty of violating the prohibition act was Saturday morning sentenced to serve ten months at the house of correction and pay a $1,000 fine. Jack Lavinsky, found guilty of the same offense, was sentenced to serve ten months and a $500 fine.

Several other offenders were given jail sentences varying from three to five months and smaller fines.

Charter Roll With More Than 50 Members Is Aim Among Lutherans

Twenty-three members now are enrolled in the new branch of the A. L. Association for Lutherans which is being formed among members of the Lutheran church at Freedom, according to G. D. Ziegler, president of the association.

There are a large number of other Lutherans of that locality who are to be seen before the first meeting is arranged. An effort will be made to enroll between 5 and 100 on the charter list.

Lutherans at Freedom are enthusiastic about having an A. L. branch in their community. It will mean an increase in social activity in the congregation, and will provide a new means of acquaintanceship and fellowship.

Mr. Ziegler is making a personal canvass of the congregation in an effort to organize as large a branch as possible.

'Y' HERE SETS HOT PACE FOR REST OF WISCONSIN CITIES

Membership In Appleton Institution Is About The Same Each Year

At the conclusion of the T. M. C. A. membership drive Friday night, George F. Werner, general secretary, wired the result to Superior Y. M. C. A. which always conducting a membership campaign and expressed the hope their workers might be equally successful.

F. A. Hathaway, state secretary of the T. M. C. A., who had charge of the Superior campaign, wired a reply Saturday from Eau Claire which read: "Most hearty congratulations on achieving the impossible. You have surely put across a whale of a job and we take our hats off to Appleton. Superior passed the objective Friday night in total numbers. The campaign is to be continued until Monday night when it is expected the number of members will be increased to 1,200."

Relative to the uniformity of membership of the local institution, Mr. Werner said:

"The membership of Appleton Y. M. C. A. is more uniform than that of any other Y. M. C. A. in the state. We have never had a slump and last September the membership exceeded that of Milwaukee, by 300 members."

"The membership for 1916 was 1,193; for 1917, 1,000; for 1918, 1,500; for 1919, 1,168; for 1920, 1,332; for 1921, including 125 vocational school students who used the building, 1,450; for 1922, not including vocational school students, 1,258; for 1923, not including vocational school students, 1,260. At the present time the membership is 1,400, and another 100 will be added before the end of the year."

I SPIED TODAY

MODERN HITCHING POST
Friday afternoon I spied the modern hitching at the First National bank corner. A farmer had come in from the country and finding nothing better nor more handy than the "no parking" sign, he hitched Dobbin to that. It served its purpose nicely. A. M. B.

HE WAS TIRED OF SIGNS
He put up the signs. Why, then, should he be subject to them? I wonder if that was the sentiment of a member of one of the city departments as he crossed an arterial highway without stopping. As he was half way across, he seemed to notice his mistake, looked around to see if any one had observed him. On seeing me, he grinned sheepishly and drove on. J. E.

A BRIDAL MISTAKE
It was an embarrassed bride couple that blundered into our home, which we had moved about two weeks ago. It was evident that the young couple were on their honeymoon and intended to surprise the family that, without their knowledge, had vacated the house just before we moved in. Without raising, they entered at the living room door, walked to the kitchen and flung open the door crying, "Hello, Mummy!" Both husband and wife blushed to the roots of their hair when they realized their mistake. I sincerely hope they succeeded in finding the right family. L. A. F.

DEMONSTRATES NEW RAKES
A new raking machine was tried out in the First ward Friday night. No great publicity was given to the tryout, possibly because it is a method too easily copied and the inventor wished no competitors in his own neighborhood. Its first appearance was quite successful and it is predicted that it will be joyfully taken up by the younger set. The driving power was supplied by a small boy on a bicycle, the rake was the common garden kind hitched on to the back of the bike. The boy rode up and down the gutters where the leaves bank up thickest. When a large enough pile was gathered he stopped, cleaned the teeth of his rake, and then rode on gathering up the next pile. It is suggested that it would be the speediest way to rake up the yard when dad hands out the command just before the Saturday morning game down on the school grounds. J. D.

GRIEF OF A FATHER

The most extraordinary monument in Illinois is in the rural cemetery at Allerton, Vermillion county. Erected by a grief-stricken father over the body of his 15-year-old daughter, it shows a reproduction of the old homestead, farm animals, and many of the childish expressions of the dead child.

FRANKE SENT TO PEN FOR 3 YEARS

Former Policeman Here Is Sentenced For Burning Home At Buckbee

Stevens Point—After pleading guilty to a charge of arson in Circuit court before Judge Byron E. Park, here, Fred Franke, owner of a farm at Buckbee, between Marion and Clintonville in Waupesa county, was sentenced to three years in state's prison at Wausau. His motive was to secure money to pay off a mortgage on the property, he told W. E. Finnegan, state fire marshal. Franke, a former policeman at Appleton, first set fire to his farm home in June by lighting a pot of oily rags. Neighbors discovered the blaze and put it out. In August the house burned to the ground after the furniture had been removed.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Voeks and Karl and Marie Voeks spent Saturday and Sunday at Watertown where they visited Victor Voeks, who is a student at Northwestern college.

ELECT ASSISTANT TO DR. PEABODY

Miss Mary Stevens Of Menomonie Gets Unanimous Call To Church Here

Miss Mary Stevens of Menomonie, was elected by the members of the First Congregational church at a special business meeting Sunday, as assistant to Dr. H. E. Peabody, pastor. She will arrive here Thursday or Friday to assume her duties.

The congregation also elected Mrs. J. W. Wilson as the official delegate of the church to the state Congregational conference opening Monday at Sheboygan.

Miss Stevens is a graduate of the Congregational training school for women, Chicago, the same school which Miss Elsie Smith, former assistant to the pastor, attended. She served previously at South Congregational church, Chicago the former pastorate of Dr. Peabody. She was obliged to give up her duties last year because of her health, but is able to resume her work and was called here.

The new assistant will act as secretary to the pastor and as parish visitor, and will assist in the management of the Sunday school and supervise young people's work. She was the only candidate whose name was submitted to the congregation and was given a unanimous call.

PEDESTRIANS IN DANGER ON ROADS

Drivers who come within a few inches of hitting people who are walking along the highways at night are becoming apprehensive about the walkers' indifference to their own safety. Every effort has been made to have people walk on the left side of the road so that they will face the automobiles which pass them. This will enable them to see the cars as they approach and to step out of the path of the oncoming vehicle.

Many drivers feel that the walkers think that they have as much right to the road as those who ride and that they are right in so thinking. The difference arises in the fact that the walker may see the approaching car easily, but the driver of the car often times cannot see the walker until he is almost upon him. The practice of carrying a light, either a flash light or a lantern, when walking on the highways will minimize the danger.

EVELYN NESBIT WARNS GIRLS TO SHUN BROADWAY

It Doesn't Pay To Go Wrong,
Says Woman Once Quoted
In Paper's Headlines

Atlantic City, N. J.—Evelyn Nesbit, whose merry-go-round of life has whirled her from the greatest luxury to the deepest tragedy, even to death's door, is "happy" again, and smiling sometimes.

Two years ago she saw only one way out—death. But quick medical attention thwarted her attempt at suicide.

Today she sees only the future and hope ahead.

"I have learned my lesson," she says. "And it has been a bitter one. But I thank God that I can still laugh, can still enjoy life—that I was born a comedienne, and not a tragedienne."

Otherwise I would not be here."

As she sat in a corner of her cabaret, just a few steps from the famous boardwalk, where she is hostess, this woman whose name was once headlined on the front page of every newspaper in America, at the time of her connection with the famous Harry "Chas. Murderer" trial, revealed the philosophy of her life.

"It doesn't pay to go wrong," she says. "You can't cheat and get away with it. Some day the bill will come to be paid."

"Because payment is delayed once in a while some people think that they can get away with anything. But the time will come when the bill will be presented, and the interest will only be the larger for the delay."

"I know that the mistakes I made when I was young and thought the world was mine to do with as I pleased, have cost me dear. Heavy in tears and sorrow has been my payment."

"But I have also learned that when persons have made payment for their wrongdoing that they can make their own future."

"Don't worry. The past is dead, atoned for. Look at the future. There lies hope, not disaster. How dreadful the past; that is, providing one is ready to be on the level."

"And if girls would only realize the shame that is 'Broadway,' how few of them would see that gilded path for their goal."

"If they could only know the holiness of the life that is led there, the mockery of its loves, its friendships."

"But I suppose the flame will all ways attract the moth, and 'Broadway' will always draw its dupes."

"I am through with it."

HOPÍ BUILDINGS DATE BACK TO 1620

Flagstaff—Scientists have determined that the Hopí Indian buildings of many of the villages of the tribe northeast of Flagstaff date back to about 1620 when the Hopís revolted against the Spanish priests and tore down missions built by the Spaniards, using many timbers from the missions in constructing their own houses.

A party including Dr. A. E. Douglas of the University of Arizona and Dr. J. A. Sweeney of the Colorado state museum returned from the Hopí pueblos, where they made a study of the wooden beams in the ancient structures.

Professor Douglas has specialized in the study of rings in ancient trees, with the result that he has been able to determine the age of timbers.

The scientists' principal difficulty lay in securing the permission of the Indians to make borings in the beams which are held sacred by the Hopís.

When this permission was finally obtained a number of one-inch borings were made and the examination indicated that the beams had been cut about the year 1620 when tradition says the Spanish built their missions in northeastern Arizona. Some 60 years later came the Hopí revolt and the missions were torn down.

Many of the beams in the Indian dwellings are decorated with intricate carvings which Dr. Douglas says are the work of the Spaniards.

MEASURE FOOD VALUES IN MINUTES OF LABOR

Vienra—American government employees, getting to gain payment for their services, have prepared their families, have prepared their case in a novel way. Instead of relating that on the old days they could buy for five cents what now costs them $6.00 they have used minutes of labor as a measuring unit and produced an interesting table.

In 1914 a loaf of bread cost 10 cents. In 1915 it cost 12 cents. In 1916 it cost 14 cents. In 1917 it cost 16 cents. In 1918 it cost 18 cents. In 1919 it cost 20 cents. In 1920 it cost 22 cents. In 1921 it cost 24 cents. In 1922 it cost 26 cents. In 1923 it cost 28 cents.

"MOON" MAKER RAN ON ALL FOURS LIKE RABBIT

Jumeau—Running on all fours through the underbrush, Adolph Chasell, known hereabouts as the "moonshiner the law," was captured by a posse of farmers in the town of Ruthton. They brought him to the county insane asylum here for observation. The man is said to be demented from over-indulgence in the product of his still and imagines he is a jackrabbit. He insists that his body is covered with blood from numerous wounds inflicted by hunters who took pot shots at him and is incessant that they should have done so during the closed season for rabbits in Dodge county. Chasell has been twice convicted of moonshine charges and for one offense served 90 days in the county jail here.

THE TROUBLE SHOOTER GIVES TIMELY TIPS FOR TOURING

By E. H. SCOTT

The Tools and Spares to Carry on Your Tour

Previous articles have described just how to go over your car and make sure that mechanically it is in good condition. Now we are ready to make the final preparations and get our equipment together for our long the road.

With all the precautions you can take, little troubles are liable to occur even with the finest car made, and there is nothing more annoying than to have something go wrong on the road which could be fixed up on a minute or so, if only you had the tools to do the job.

Among the accessories first, have you a spot light? If not, get one. For the tourist, the spot light is invaluable. Suppose you have five or engine trouble on the road at night, the headlights will rarely illuminate the cross road signs, but with a spot light, you can focus the beam and read the sign without difficulty, in most cases without stopping the car. Then again, when you have to dim the headlights to pass another car, the spot light beam can be directed down and across the car in such a way that it does not dazzle those in the approaching car, yet lights up the road in front of you.

Last, but not least, the spot light will furnish you all the light you need for the tent. Be sure to get a light with at least 12 feet of extra cord or cable, so that you can carry it around to any part of the car where you need light.

Now take out the tool kit and go over it carefully. In addition to the special tools, certain parts, such as the wrench for the hub caps, etc., you will be wise to see that you have those listed below.

One medium sized pipe wrench. One small pipe wrench. One each cold chisel, round punch, and center punch. One flat file, square file, half round file, and one special magnet type file. Three good strong tie levers. Tire pump. Good lighting jack. Grease and oil. Good small portable vice that will clamp to running board. Wire cutters.

Your spares should include the following: At least one good spare tire mounted on wheel or rim. Two spare tubes in bags. Reserve supply of half a gallon of oil and half a gallon of gasoline. Small can of oil. Three or four extra spark plugs. One box of assorted split pins, washers, nuts and bolts. Spool of copper wire about 20 ga., and spool of picture frame wire. Length of insulated spark plug cable about 10 feet long. Cake of American Family soap. Supply of rags of waste. Set of electric light bulbs and fuses. Fan belt.

All of these tools and spares can be packed away very compactly. Have your tools arranged in a canvas or leather roll and placed under the seat or where they can be gotten at easily when you need them. If tools are placed where they are hard to get at, it tempts you to put off tightening up nuts and bolts or making some small repair, and the results in some part being loose or working loose, causing serious damage. Tools like the screw driver, pliers and adjustable wrench should be carried in the pocket of a door or where they can be reached at once when you need them.

Don't forget to carry a wood supply of rags or waste or the soap. The soap comes in useful not only for washing purposes, but will also help you to make a temporary repair if you are unfortunate enough to crack a gasoline pipe or have a leaking connection. Soften the soap and plaster it around the crack or connection, then wind a strip of rag or some insulating tape all around. The rags will enable you to pack the tools so that they will not rattle about in your car.

The tow rope is not absolutely necessary unless you are going on a long trip, but in any case it is a handy thing to have on a car. You never know when you will have to make a detour or strike a muddy stretch of road, and the tow rope might be just the thing about all other things that you need. If you are not carrying mud chains (and you should) the tow rope can be used to wrap around the tire and pull you out.

Be sure about your spare spark plugs. Take new ones preferably, or if the plugs have been used, be sure that they are clean and tight. The spark plug is the life of the engine. Most owners think they have spare plugs, but when they come to look for them in time of trouble, they discover that what they really have is half a dozen oily, fouled up, defective plugs that have never been cleaned, and which you cannot count upon. Make sure that the spares you are going to carry are GOOD plugs.

Always use a box spanner to remove the spark plugs. If you use an open end wrench it is always liable to slip off and break the porcelain. It is a good policy also to use one particular make of spark plugs. Some plugs suit one engine better than another. It is always best to stick to the make and type of plug supplied by the manufacturer of your car. He knows better than anyone else what plugs suit his particular engine.

EXPERTS ASSERT LIGHTNING RODS PREVENT FIRES

Property Owners Throughout
Country Urged To Equip
Buildings With Appliance

By Associated Press
New York.—Property owners throughout the country are urged to equip their buildings with lightning rods by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, which today declared that 80 per cent of the fires caused by lightning could thus be prevented.

The losses by fire caused by lightning are estimated at $20,000,000 annually. A widespread indifference to this form of protection exists, however, due to the swindling methods and the lack of knowledge of the value of lightning rods.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters has adopted a plan whereby a representative of their organization inspects and advises a property owner as to the value of lightning rods and the work it involves. The insurance companies will grant a reduction of insurance for lightning rods only on those buildings where the master label is attached to the lightning rod of the company which made the installation.

The master label will be provided by the Fire Underwriters where the terms submitted by the insurance companies will be tested for certain.

Fire Prevention Is Practiced Whole Year By Fire Fighters Here

Small Number Of Fires In Appleton Due To Constant Vigilance Of Department And Citizens

Fire prevention week, which will be observed throughout the country the week of Oct. 7 to 13, has the hearty support of Chief George P. McGilgan, and every member of the fire department.

The activities of the fire department toward preventing fires in Appleton extend beyond the Fire Prevention week and take in the whole year.

Were it not for the preventative measures, the number of fires in Appleton and fire losses would be far greater in this city, and Appleton would not have the favorable fire insurance rating that it is now enjoying.

Appleton has this record in spite of the handicap of a shortage in the personnel of the fire department. Compared with other cities of Wisconsin, Appleton employs less firemen per thousand population than any city.

Proportionately some cities employ twice as many fire fighters as Appleton. There are but half as large as Appleton with as many firemen as the Outagamie-co city.

HOW THEY COMPARE
Following is a comparison of the larger cities, showing that 1920 population and the number of firemen employed: LaCrosse, 30,533, 73 firemen; Racine, 55,593, 56 men; Oshkosh, 33,152, 60 men; Superior, 39,624, 39 men; Sheboygan 30,555, 45 men; Wausau, 18,661, 55 men; Manitowish, 17,583, 26 men; Kenosha, 40,472, 53 men; Eau Claire, 29,830, 24 men; Fond du Lac, 23,427, 37 men; Green Bay, 31,917, 41 men; Beloit, 21,284, 21 men; Ashland, 11,334, 13 men; Marinette, 13,619, 22 men; Appleton, 20,000, 22 men.

With an undermanned department the time and effort that fire prevention deserves in this city cannot be given adequately, in the opinion of Chief McGilgan. Twice a year the fire department goes on a city inspection every factory, store, residence and every other building in the city for fire hazards. Four times a year they make an inspection of business and factory districts.

In order to do this the department has at times had to resort to taking men who were off duty and delegate them to the fire inspection work. The business and factory districts should be inspected more than four times a year, and residence districts should also be inspected more frequently, the chief believes. Some cities employ a city fire inspector who devotes all his working time to that work.

LOOKS FOR FIRE HAZARDS
In the case of factories, stores, schools and other buildings, the firemen are instructed to go through the whole building in search of fire risks. They are without authority to enter private homes, but they do inspect the premises to see if there are ashes or other rubbish near the buildings, whether the buildings are exposed to gasoline and other volatile liquids, whether stove pipes run from the house to outbuildings in a manner to endanger the property. The chief of the department, as chief inspector and state deputy fire marshal has access to all new buildings, even residences, to see if the fireplaces are properly installed or whether the buildings otherwise comply with the fire regulations.

Fire inspection is made in compliance with a city ordinance and with the state building code. Local firemen usually operate under the state industrial commission as its scope is considerably larger. An order to remove a fire hazard can be used with a city or state form.

EDUCATE PEOPLE
The perpetual fire prevention campaign has its influence upon the people. They are gradually becoming more educated in the art of fire prevention and are cooperating with the department much better than formerly. Business men and manufacturers, their attention once called to an existing fire hazard, are careful enough to have it removed. But constant vigilance is necessary to reduce the number and losses of fires.

Because Appleton is growing, the number of fires are also increasing gradually. Nevertheless, the yearly loss by fire is being kept quite low. Last year the department responded to 150 alarms. Fires caused a total damage of $6,945.65 on buildings, and $5,468.50 on contents of buildings. Most of the fires—51—were chimney fires. There were 25 fires caused by short circuit, 14 rubbish fires, eight fires caused by spontaneous combustion, seven resulting from firecrackers. Other causes were overheated smoke pipe, kerosene oil stove, sparks from engine, lightning, city rags, back fire, grass fires, ashes, gas, matches, car heater, cigarette electric iron, grease, defective fireplaces, defective flue, overheated stove, hot coals, overheated furnace, wood against boiler, gasoline, blow torch, and other causes.

As declared by Chief McGilgan in common with other chiefs, as well as fire underwriters and other fire experts, that most fires are preventable. Andasmuch as the smallest blunder may develop a conflagration, nationwide efforts are being made to bring fire hazards to a minimum.

Special attention is given to the investigation of fire hazards in the so-called fire limits. Inspection is more rigid here than in other sections of the city. The fire limits may be approximated as follows: Beginning at the southwest corner of Drew-st and College-ave; south to Lawrence-st; west to Cherry-st; north to College-ave; west to Mason-st; north 250 feet; thence west on almost a direct line to Washington and Superior streets north to Washington and Superior streets north to Midway between Appleton and Oneida-st; south to Midway between Franklin and Washington-st; east to Midway between Madison and Oneida-st; south to Washington-st; east to Drew-st; south to starting point.

COULDN'T BELIEVE IT
REALLY WAS AMERICA
By Associated Press
Syracuse, N. Y.—Charlotte Bard had a Lilliputian fairland opened to her here during the New York state fair just ended.

All by herself she traveled from Osego, N. Y., a small place down state, and for the first time saw: An elevator. A shower bath. A movie show. And an airplane.

"My goodness," Charlotte, who's only 12, exclaimed when these twentieth century wonders caught her eye. "It's really America? I've never seen such things before."

She intends to continue in your city, raising and though not yet 12, her teens has started her own farm. Her exhibits here won many prizes.

Safe in Japan
Friends of Prof. Frederick Star who secured in Appleton some time ago were apprehensive for his safety when they received word from his family that he was in the quake area in Japan. Their fears were quickly banished when another communication from Prof. Star's sister said that word had been received from the professor and that he was safe, although he had been in the stricken area.

THE ISLE OF RETRIBUTION

By EDISON MARSHALL

The second of Mrs. Hardenworth's... a distinct prejudice against... Mrs. Hardenworth... she was in a dejected humor... until tea time, when she again joined... Ned and Lenore on the deck.

None of the three could resist a... a holiday mood such as had lately come but rarely and which was wholly worth celebrating... "It's a rare day," Ned announced solemnly.

"And heaven! We haven't christened the ship," Lenore added drolly. "Children, children! Not yet a day out! But you mustn't overlook either of you!" Mrs. Hardenworth shook her finger to caution them. "Now, Ned, have the colored man bring me three glasses and water. I'd prefer angelica with mine if you don't mind—I'm dreadfully old-fashioned in that regard."

Bess made the very sensible resolve to avoid Ned's society and that of his two guests just as much as possible. She saw at once they were not her kind of people, and only an occasional result from her intercourse with them.

And her decision to avoid the three aristocrats stood her in good stead before the night was done, saving her as bitter a moment as any that had appressed her in all the steep path of her life. Just after the dinner call had sounded Lenore, Ned, and Mrs. Hardenworth had had a momentous conference in the little dining saloon.

"I see the table's set for four," Mrs. Hardenworth began. "Who's the other place for—Captain Knutson?"

"I'm afraid the captain has to mind his wheel. This isn't an oceanic liner, I suppose the place is set for Miss Gilbert."

"Miss Gilbert seems to fill the horizon. May I ask how many more there are in the crew?"

"Just McNab, Forest and the cook. Both white men take turns at the wheel in open water."

"That's three for each table, considering one of them may not say at the wheel. Why shouldn't one of these places be removed?"

"Of course, if you prefer it." Half ashamed of his reluctance, he called the negro and had the fourth place removed. "Miss Gilbert will eat at the second table," he explained. When the man had gone, Ned turned in appeal to Lenore. "She'll be here in a minute. What shall I tell her?"

"Just what you told the servant—that she is to wait for the second table. Ned and you might as well make it clear in the beginning, otherwise it will be a problem all through the trip. Wait till she comes in, then tell her."

Ned agreed, and they waited for the sound of Bess' step on the stair. Mrs. Hardenworth's large lips were set in a hard line. Lenore had a curious, eager expectancy. Quietly Julius served the soup wondering at the ways of his superiors, the whites, and the long seconds grew into minutes. Still they did not see Bess' bright face at the door.

"Send for her," Mrs. Hardenworth urged. "There's no reason you shouldn't get this done and out of the way tonight, so we won't have to be distressed about it again."

Wholly cowed, Ned called to the negro waiter. "Please tell Miss Gilbert to come here," he ordered.

A wide grin cracking his cheeks, Julius waited to understand the real situation and assuming that "de boss" had relented on his purpose to exclude the seamstress from the first table, the colored man sped cheerfully away. Bess had already spoken kindly to him; Julius had deplored the order to remove her plate almost as a personal affront.

Again they waited for the seamstress to come. The women were grim, forbidding. And in a moment they heard steps at the threshold.

But only Julius, his face beset with gloom, came through the opened door. "The lady say she 's'rry," he pronounced, bowing. "But she say she's already promised Mista McNab to eat with him."

VII

The Charon sped straight north, out of the Sound, through the inside passage. Days were bright, skies were clear, displaying at night a marvelous mirage of stars; the sea glittered from the dimly September sun. They put in at Vancouver the night following their departure from Seattle, loaded with certain heavy stores and continued their way in the lee of Vancouver Island.
